Computer skills and competences Since 2008 I've worked for European Schoolnet as an ICT and eLearning expert. I've created project modules and kits for international projects. I've taken part in writing guidebooks and tested new environments and tools. In 2010 I gave two Learning Events for over 300 teachers from all over Europe. The events lasted from two to five weeks and were dealing with Web 2.0 tools and their implementation in collaborative learning on the web.

I am an ICT teacher in upper secondary school. Besides very good basic skills, I have very good skills in creating and updating web-pages, in planning and coordinating web-based learning (open learning environments), in creating virtual courses and in producing virtual learning material.

I'm very well networked in Facebook, Google+ and Twitter. I have strong connections and networks with many eTwinning teachers from the Learning Events I've moderated and from different professional workshops and conferences I have attended.

I've attended several courses in different fields of ICT, but especially dealing with constructing virtual learning material and moderating virtual courses in the web.

Artistic skills and competences	For my different webpages I've created lots of photo-galleries and video clips. I'm good at photo enhancing and manipulating.
Other skills and competences	I have excellent knowledge in the pedagogical processes of student-centred ways of learning. Through my many projects I've developed a deep understanding of peer learning, online collaboration and project- and problem-based learning. I know the circumstances in which teacher work and the difficulties they may face. But I also know the enthusiasm they have in learning new things and sharing their knowledge with their peers.
